

- Every effort has been made to provide correct and accurate information.
- For personal use only. For permission to reproduce multiple copies, please contact us at contact@whyquiltsmatter.org.

Marcie Cohen Ferris Biography

Marcie Cohen Ferris worked in the field of museums and public history for more than 20 years. She is now an associate professor of American Studies at the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill. She is the author of Matzoh Ball Gumbo: Culinary Tales of the Jewish South (UNC Press, 2005). Matzoh Ball Gumbo was nominated for the 2006 James Beard Foundation Award in the category of Writings on Food, and was also recognized by the International Association of Culinary Professionals with its 2006 Jane Grigson Award for distinguished scholarship in research and presentation. Ferris is co-editor of Jewish Roots in Southern Soil: A New History (University Press of New England, 2006). She is currently at work on a social history of food in the American South. Ferris's research and teaching interests include the history of the Jewish South, food in American culture, American Jewish women's history, and the material culture of the American South. In 2007, Ferris received the University of North Carolina's Tanner Award for Excellence in Undergraduate Education. Ferris is the past president of the Southern Foodways Alliance.